Consumer Responsibility

IF YOU ARE UNSURE REGARDING THE SAFETY OF A FOOD PRODUCT ALWAYS CAREFULLY READ THE LABEL BEFORE DOING SO. Should you be allergic to or suspect being allergic to certain food ingredients always check the product package label for specific information stating the contents of the package.

Position of Nutrition and Ingredient Labels

The primary source of Allergen information for our consumers is the product label. All of our labels clearly indicate all ingredients and nutritional information following guidelines set forth by the Food and Drug Administration. Our labels may be found on both the Product packaging and our Dispensing systems. Labels found on our Product packaging are always located on the rear face of the package. Position of these labels varies in regards to our products dispensing systems. Newer Twelve and Fourteen Flavor Dispensing Systems Nutrition and Ingredient information may be found on the base of the dispensing unit (See Fig A). Some older Twelve Flavor Dispensing Systems label is found on the top sign of the unit (See Fig B). Six Flavor Dispensing Systems label are found on the top sign of the unit (See Fig C).
